

Editing

Contributed by Alan
Tuesday, 08 July 2008
Last Updated Tuesday, 08 July 2008

I can skillfully edit your work. I am able to edit in the following capacities.

- For Grammar, punctuation and other mechanical functions
- For Structure and Flow
- For Conceptual clarity
- For the Presentational preferences of the medium (or rather, it's users)

This last one is key. Internet users demand short sentences, short paragraphs and lists. In other words, information clearly organized and concisely expressed. While much of what I've written throughout this site ignores many rules for writing on the web, I follow this for any business related publication.

So, if you come to me with content you've been working on that is beautiful, articulate, artfully expressed prose, I can turn it into a short, well organized page that maintains an astonishing amount of your own writing.